

TELUS Camp in a Box

on-site communications and IT for energy construction projects

exceed expectations

Your business is building a major upstream operation in a remote area. In order to meet investor expectations of being on-time and on-budget, you must deal with a number of issues:

- Geographical challenges – remote locations, seasonal constraints on construction of facilities
- Assets and people must be mobile – in a constantly changing project environment
- Resource and skills availability – attracting and retaining a qualified work force
- Security and safety – amplified business risks associated with a constantly changing workforce

TELUS can help. TELUS Camp in a Box is a one-stop-shop solution that delivers simple and fast access to communications and associated IT services. Designed for large-scale oil and gas construction projects, it is one component of our comprehensive suite of energy sector solutions.

TELUS Camp in a Box services include:

- Mobile workforce services such as integrated network connectivity, remote equipment devices, applications and database management
- Certified on-site labour services to assist with your wiring, cabling and CPE needs
- Contractor services that provide voice, data and video to the contractors working on your project
- Collaboration and training services for your employees and contractors who may need special training or have collaboration/remote decision-making requirements
- Petroleum data services that provide online access to site-specific geospatial information, fleet or asset tracking
- Safety and security services for your communications, data, assets and people
- Quality-of-life services for residents of your construction camps including payphones and high speed Internet for online games, Internet radio, family Web-cams for conferencing and monitoring, and personal banking
- Applications that must be securely provided to your employees in remote areas

TELUS Camp in a Box can easily be customized to meet your needs. TELUS is your single point of contact for services and accountability. Rely on us to simplify the delivery and support of on-site communications and IT during the entire life of your project.

TELUS delivers a suite of IT-enabling solutions that can be your competitive advantage. They are already being used by hundreds of energy companies in Canada. Our dedicated energy sector team will take the time to understand your business issues and tailor a solution to meet your needs.